The Colorado Lottery IT and Security groups have recently learned of several "Past Due Invoice" email messages that have been sent to a number of Lottery Retailers appearing to come from Lottery Employee, LuAnn Caligaris.

Please note; any email messages asking for bank information or suggesting a lottery change of address did not originate from Ms. Caligaris but instead are "phishing" attempts. The Lottery has not changed any of our information and the Lottery has not sent an email message regarding "Past Due Invoices".

The email message may contain attachments. If this is the case, DO NOT OPEN the attachments as they may contain a virus. Delete the email.

If you, unfortunately open the attachments please contact your system administrator to ensure your systems are secure.

Please contact your Lottery Sales contact if you have any questions.

Remember if an email looks odd, always question it and don't act! However, understand that you will continue to receive legitimate email messages from Ms. Caligaris.
